

A last minute chance to sample top eatery

2550

DINERS have the chance to sample a top Camden Town restaurant and give to the Help A London Child charity at the same time.

As part of London Restaurant Week and in aid of the children's charity, Gilgamesh in Stables Market is offering a three-course dinner for just £25 from Sunday (March 11) to Wednesday.

A meal at the Pan-Asian restaurant, run by head chef Ian Pengalley, would usually cost more than twice as much.

Tables can be booked through www.lastminute.com and with every booking, the internet site will make a donation to the charity.

WOOD & VALE 9 MARCH 2007